

DoView Tool E3 - Types of Contracting or Delegating for Outcomes or Outputs

Below are the four types of contracting or delegating for outcomes or outputs. When doing any type of delegating or contracting it is always useful to discuss exactly what is being contracted for against a DoView strategy/outcomes diagram that has whether indicators are controllable and not-necessarily controllable (e.g. outcomes marked up on it). Doing this allows parties to immediately identify the specific things that are being contracted for in the context of the 'This-Then' logic of the initiative.
